PROJECT MEMORANDUM 1.2.3
AGREEMENTS/CONTRACT DATABASE DEVELOPMENT SUMMARY

REVISED FINAL DRAFT

September 2017

PREFACE

The analysis and evaluations contained in these Project Memorandum (PM) are based on data and information available at the time of the original date of publication, December 2015. After development of the December 2015 Final Draft PMs, the City continued to move forward on two concurrent aspects: 1) advancing the facilities planning for the water, wastewater, recycled water, and stormwater facilities; and 2) developing Updated Cost of Service (COS) Studies (Carollo, 2017) for the wastewater/collection system and the water/distribution system. The updated 2017 COS studies contain the most recent near-term Capital Improvement Projects (CIP). The complete updated CIP based on the near-term and long-term projects is contained in the Brief History and Overview of the City of Oxnard Public Works Department's Integrated Planning Efforts: May 2014 – August 2017 section.

At the time of this Revised PWIMP, minor edits were also incorporated into the PMs. Minor edits included items such as table title changes and updating reports that were completed after the December 2015 original publication date.

1.0 INTRODUCTION

As part of the Public Works Integrated Master Plan (PWIMP), Carollo Engineers was asked to organize all of, and assess some of, the City of Oxnard's (City's) current contracts and provide recommendations and modifications as warranted by the City. In August of 2014, Carollo began an effort to collect the contract and agreement records provided by the City. After the records were compiled, Carollo worked with City staff to organize the records in a database program for efficient future use.

The City's software preference was Microsoft Access 2007, compatible with Microsoft Office 2013. The City requested the database be set up such that it could be easily uploaded to their servers and used throughout their system with security preferences for different users. Carollo's effort focused on setting up the database table structure so it would be fully scalable for future build-out.

The current database front-end was designed based on conversations with the City utilities management and staff. As requested by the City, the forms represent the beginning of the development process and need to be further tested and optimized by the City to be considered as final product. Also, many City management and staff participated in an Access database training session. It is the City's responsibility to take on the draft database and software and populate the records, as well as update and maintain the front-end for future use.

The following memo explains the database development and work to date, as well as the overall structure and details of the forms in the Access software.

1.1 Project Memorandums (PMs) Used for Reference

The recommendations outlined in this PM are made in concert with recommendations and analyses from other related PMs:

- PM 1.1 - Master Planning Process Overview.

2.0 DATABASE STRUCTURE

The software was written in Access 2007 which is compatible with Microsoft Office 2013. Microsoft Access is a database management system that combines the Jet Database Engine and graphical user interface software-development tools.

The software is broken into four major components that can be used to view the data in different forms. These components include Tables, Queries, Forms, and Reports. The tables contain all of the data and information, and are connected by relationships between the data in each table. The data structure is shown below.

2.1 Tables

Tables hold all of the information that is stored in the database. Carollo developed seven major tables for the City. Each table can be viewed in design view or datasheet view. These tables are listed and will be explained in further detail in the sections that follow:

1. tblAgreements.
2. tblAmendments.
3. tblContractor.
4. tblContractType.

5. tblDivision.
6. tblProjectManager.
7. tblRFP.

The data was organized into these seven tables, each with a unique theme or subject. The information in each table is based off of a single key which contains a unique non-repeatable value that all of the other data in that table relates to. This unique value in each table, referred to as the table's key, is specified by the small key icon in the design view mode, as shown in Figure 1.

2.1.1 Agreements Table

The agreements table holds the combined information for agreements and contracts organized as a part of this project. Documentation is provided to describe each data entry field in each table. As an example of this, the main table, "tblAgreement," is shown in Figure 2 with a list of labeled field names and their descriptions.

Field Name	Data Type	Description (Optional)
 intAgreementID	AutoNumber	Primary key for Agreements, autonumber intRFPID	Number	RFPID for RFP, links from tblRFP, could be many contracts for one RFP intDivisionID	Number	DivisionID within public works, links to tblDivision
intContractTypeID	Number	Specifies contract type, links to tblContractType
intContractorID	Number	Specifies contractor, links to tblContractor
intManagerID	Number	Specifies project manager, links to tblProjectManager
chrContractOrAgreement	Short Text	Agreement specifications (Options: Contract, Agreement)
chrStatus	Short Text	Status (Options: Active, Inactive, Unknown)
chrAgreementNo	Short Text	Agreement number dtmStart	Date/Time	Start date
dtmExpiration	Date/Time	Expiration date
curOriginalContractAmount	Currency	Specifies dollar amount original contract chrPONo	Short Text	Purchase order (PO) number chrProjNo	Short Text	Project number chrScopeDescription	Short Text	Description of contract scope
dtmBusinessLicense	Date/Time	Business license
dtmGeneral	Date/Time	General?
dtmAuto	Date/Time	Date of auto insurance expiration dtmPersonalAuto	Date/Time	Date of personal auto insurance expiration dtmExcess	Date/Time	Date for?
dtmWorkersComp	Date/Time	Date of expiring workers comp

chrConnectionPoint	Short Text	Agreements only - Connection point

It is important to note that some agreements may have a single agreement number with multiple task orders, which create duplicate agreement numbers in the agreement table. When this product is developed further by the City, it is recommended that a new table labeled "tblTaskOrder," be developed, or an additional task order number could be concatenated onto each agreement number for better tracking of task orders.

2.1.2 Project Manager, Amendments, and RFP Tables

In addition to the "tblAgreement" table, an amendment table, project manager table, and requests for proposals (RFP) table are shown respectively in Figure 3, Figure 4, and Figure 5 below.

The project manager list includes all project managers with relevant information. The RFP table was included to keep track of all RFPs. The RFP table was linked to the contracts table with a parent to child relationship because a single RFP may develop into multiple agreements with various contractors as well as amendments. Before an RFP develops into a contract, the RFP is given a number with a description that may be different from the actual agreement or contract number.

Field Name	Data Type	Description (Optional)
intAmendmentID	AutoNumber	Amendment ID
intAgreementID	Number	Corresponding to agreement number, links from tblAgreements
intAmendmentNumber	Number	Amendment Number chrAmendmentDescription	Short Text	Amendment comment for description of total amended amount curAmendmentValue	Currency	Previous amendment amount, includes total for multiple amendments when database was created(specify dmtDateOfAmendment	Date/Time	Date of current amendment amount dtmPreviousExpiration	Date/Time	Previous Agreement Expiration for record keeping (if applicable)

Tables can be viewed in two forms, design view or datasheet view. One example is shown in Figure 6 for the agreements table. The data view of the agreements spreadsheet is similar to a typical excel spreadsheet, but connects to various other tables that contain specific information common to multiple agreements, such as a contractor or a vendor.

2.1.3 Contractor and Contract Type Tables

The contractor table (Figure 7) describes the contractor or vendor that an agreement may be with. The contract type table contains the type of contract specified by City staff. This list of contract types was standardized from the unformatted list compiled earlier in the project so that each contract type is specifically named and explained to prevent redundant descriptions and typing errors. The figure below shows the list of contact types. If the City would like to add a more detailed level of description for each, they have the ability to edit through the front end software application, or directly through the table data view backend.

2.1.4 Division Table

Another table is the division table shown in Figure 8. This table contains the division of public works that has taken part in the contract or agreement. The list contains options for multiple divisions at once as shown at the bottom of the table. Further development for highlighting a variety of scenarios at once may be warranted, but was not included in this preliminary build out.

2.2 Queries

There are numerous queries developed for each form created. Queries pull together data from multiple tables so they can be viewed in one consistent table. These queries are directly linked to each field in the table, therefore edits made in the queries will update back to the tables automatically. Note that there are restrictions as to how a query can pull or edit information across multiple tables. Additional information on queries can be found at Microsoft.com.

2.3 Forms

Forms were developed for the nontechnical user to view the data in a front-end graphical environment. Forms are listed below the queries in the object view. Five major forms were developed as part of this effort. The primary form in the database is shown in Figure 11.

This form gives the user the ability to navigate to reports by criteria, reports by filter, export a project, or administrator. Each of the four navigation items will be described in the sections below.

2.3.1 Reports By Criteria Form

Clicking on reports by criteria, the user is able to select from multiple rows to select and view various reports. The user can then generate a report from their selection. Figure 12 shows the reports by criteria form.

Selections can be made as shown in Figure 13.

The user can then generate a report with the button at the bottom, as shown in Figure 14.

2.3.3 Reports By Administrator

If the "administer" button is clicked on the main form, the user has options to edit agreements, add an amendment, set up a new project, or delete a project, as shown in Figure 16.

By clicking the "edit agreements" tab, the user can search for agreements using the agreement number, and then edit the data found within that agreement number. An example of this is shown in Figure 17.

By clicking "Adding an Amendment" under the Admin Report View (Figure 16), the user can search for current agreement numbers through the agreement number and add amendments from the same page. Previous amendments are shown, as well as information on each agreement to assure the correct agreement is selected. Once the user is sure that they have selected the correct agreement, an amendment can be added and the program will calculate the new total for sum of amendments. 3.0 CONCLUSION

This PM details the work provided by Carollo to organize agreements and contracts within the Public Works Department. The current software was organized on the back end so that the data may be scaled up over time in accordance with the City's preferences. The front-end user interface of the software can be easily manipulated and optimized for future performance as the City moves forward with and tests the software. Appendix A summarizes the Agreements at the time of this database creation. New agreements will need to be added to update the agreement list provided herein.
